

MILLIONS STOLEN FROM THE NEW HAVEN AND ALMOST EVERY LAW ON STATUTE BOOKS WAS BROKEN

Interstate Commerce Commission Report Severely Arraigns Mellen, Rockefeller and Morgan; One of Most Remarkable Chapters in American History Revealed

WASHINGTON, July 13.—The story of the "reckless and profligate" financial operations of the New Haven railroad, one of the most remarkable chapters in the history of American railroading and finance, was revealed in part today by the interstate commerce commission in a report to the senate of its investigation of that road.

It told of millions used like stage money, of corporations as pawns in a monster game with all New England's transportation as a prize, which led the New Haven in the 10 years just passed from the height of prosperity to the point where a dividend has been passed, where a dissolution suit is threatening and where criminal indictments of many of the directors who figured in its deals are at least a possibility.

Hampered by unwilling witnesses, to deceive the stockholders and the public.

Scanned books and by all the mazes such lawyers invented to cover the progress toward monopolization of New England transportation, the New Haven stockholders have lost between $65,000,000 and $90,000,000, but little of which they may recover.

Turn the report said, they have on their hands properties which pay no dividends which eat into the earnings of the parent road and which will be burden on its capacity for many years to come.

Discloses Gigantic Monopoly.
The report which deals with the management of the New Haven under former President Charles S. Mellen and of the present directing heads, Chas.
Howard Elliott, and Walker C. Hines, special counsel, says "they have cooperated with the commission and rendered it substantial assistance throughout this investigation."

The combination created by the hands of Mr. Mellen and approved by the late Pierpont Morgan and William Rockefeller, the commission finds to be clearly in violation of the Sherman trust act and a monopoly in practical control of the transportation of the states.

The commission's report is in the manner in which the directors of the New Haven are accused for their conduct in the management of the road. It speaks of criminal malad-ministration and negligence, asserts with positiveness that the directors knew that they were perfecting an illegal combination and says that the road was a transportation monopoly which was unbound and mischievous.

The New Haven, the commission says, employed dummy directors, manipulated accounts, used questionable methods in increasing its own stock, paid its dividends of subsidiaries to make a showing and used many other devices to deceive the stockholders and the public.

U. S. MARINES ORDERED TO CUBAN WATERS

Will Be Held Ready for Service in Haiti and the Dominican Republic

TO PUT DOWN REBELLION Situation in Islands Said to Have Grown Critical in Last Four Days

WASHINGTON, July 13.—Seven hundred marines today were ordered assembled at Guantanamo Cuba, to be held in readiness for service in revolution-torn Haiti and Santo Domingo.

The navy department acted at the request of Secretary Bryan, who asked that the fleet be prepared to deal with any emergency that might arise on the turbulent little island.

The marines will be gathered from those now on duty in Mexican waters and from the marine barracks in Philadelphia and Norfolk.

At Guantanamo the force will be only a day's sail from the north coast of Haiti and Santo Domingo and their proximity is expected to impress upon the revolutionists the determination of the American government to terminate their activities by force unless they listen to the warnings already given.

Situation Hopeless.

The situation in Santo Domingo has come to be regarded as almost hopeless of a cure from within while in Haiti conditions are little better.

Acting Secretary Roosevelt announced today's action in the following statement:

"Numerous appeals from time to time have been made for the protection of American life and property on the island of Haiti, which have been jeopardized by various bands of revolutionists operating both in Haiti and Santo Domingo. Dispatches from there indicating that these conditions probably will continue for some time, indicate that it is necessary to place a small force of marines where they will be available in case an emergency should arise which would make it advisable for them to be on hand for the protection of life and property."

To Land Marines.

"The acting secretary of the navy, at the request of the state department, has accordingly directed that the United States ship Hancock proceed from Vera Cruz to Guantanamo, and there land about 295 marines, including 185 from a special service squadron in Mexican waters, mainly from the New York and Texas."

"After landing the marines, the Hancock will proceed to Hampton Road to take aboard there 400 additional marines and return with them to Guantanamo."

"In addition to the above, the gun-boat Sacramento has been ordered from Puerto Mexico to Guantanamo.
This action is taken merely as a precaution and it is hoped that no conditions will arise that require service of this force."

The navy already has in Haiti and Dominican waters the battleships Connecticut and South Carolina and the cruisers Marietta, Castine and Machias.

STRIKE ON SHORT LINE ENDS; MEN RETURN TO WORK

ROBINSON ELIMINATED FROM CONTROVERSY

Committee's Work Appreciated by Both Sides; All Men to Be Cared For

Differences between the union employees of the Tripple Creek Short Line and the company have been adjusted and the strike was declared officially yesterday noon and regular service has been resumed. According to terms of the settlement all the men, with the exception of Conductor C. D. Robinson are to be taken back into the employ of the company many of whom resumed their former positions yesterday.

That the strike has been settled along lines satisfactory to all concerned was the statement given out by both sides yesterday. Matters came to a conclusion Sunday night at a conference of both sides with the mediation committee consisting of Judge Ira Harris, chairman of the municipal affairs committee of the Chamber of Commerce, District Atorney M. W. Purcell and J. Addison Hales, president of the First National bank.

The case of Conductor Robinson was eliminated by his appointment to a position by one of the large mining companies. The railroad company has announced that it will take care of the men brought here for employment since the strike began, and the old employees will be taken back into service on a fair basis.

Carey Pleased With Plan

In speaking of the adjustment Martin E. Carey, vice president of the Order of Railway Conductors last night made the following statement:

"We are pleased at the harmonious settlement that has finally been made between the union and the company and appreciate the way in which the settlement has been made. We are deeply grateful to the citizens of Colorado Springs and the state for the way in which they have treated us.
We feel under great obligations to the citizens' committee composed of Judge Harris, Mr. Purcell and Mr. Hales, who have done so much to bring the strike to a satisfactory conclusion."

President Jesse H. Waters of the Short Line made the following statement yesterday:

"The strike has been settled along fair lines to all concerned. Due consideration has been given both to the old employees and to the employees taken on since the strike began."

The strike was conducted in a quiet manner, and both sides yesterday stated their appreciation of the work of the mediation committee and of the fact that the newspapers did all in their power to reduce to a minimum all matter concerning any bitterness little of which existed. The officials of the unions and of the company were thanked by the members of the committee for the way in which they handled the negotiations.

Regular train service has been resumed and the majority of the employees will be back at their positions today.

WESTERN ENGINEERS AND FIREMEN VOTE
TO STRIKE, REPORT

Result of Balloting Will Be Made Public in Chicago Today

CHICAGO, July 13.—The result of the strike vote, affecting 85,000 men, to determine whether the engineers and firemen on 33 railways west of Chicago will quit work to enforce their demand for an increase in wages, will be given out tomorrow. It was confidently asserted tonight that the men had voted to strike if necessary.

Warren B. Stone, grand chief engineer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, and W. S. Carter, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, who have appeared for the employees, are in hopes that the result of the vote will induce the general managers' committee to reconsider its refusal of the demands and to reopen negotiations.

MEXICO SOON TO HAVE NEW MAN AT HELM

Nothing Short of Triumphant March Into Capital Will Satisfy Rebels

U. S. WILL NOT INTERFERE

Huerta Will Hand Over Reins of Government This Week, Says Dispatch

MEXICO CITY, July 14 (Tuesday).— Provisional President Huerta and his family, according to reports prevalent in the capital, are expected to leave for Vera Cruz some time today and will probably embark on the steamer Española.

The Española, which plies between Vera Cruz, Havana and several Spanish ports already has a number of prominent Huerta officials aboard.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—The Brazilian minister to Mexico, who is carrying on the interests of the United States in the country, telegraphed today to the state department that the resignation of General Huerta in favor of Francisco Carbajal, the newly appointed minister of foreign affairs was expected tomorrow or Wednesday.

Minister Suarez of Chile, one of the three mediators anticipating the retirement of Huerta, sought in an informal talk with Secretary Bryan to learn what the attitude of the United States would be toward the Carbajal government. While the Washington government will recognize Carbajal, Minister Suarez learned that the U.
S. government was not disin-clined to treat informally with the new administration until a transfer of power to the Constitutionalists could be effected.

Confers With Rebel Agent.

Earlier in the day Minister Suarez had a conference with Fernando Iglesias Calceon, head of the Liberal party in Mexico, here on a private mission for General Carranza. While Mr.
Suarez and Mr. Calceon are old friends and their meeting was said to have been social, it is believed that they talked about the efforts being made to bring the two contending Mexican factions into communication so that there may be a change of government in Mexico City without further bloodshed. Mr. Calceon holds the view that unless the Huerta forces are ready to capitulate conferences would be futile.

General Carranza himself notified the United States through John R. Silliman, formerly American consul at Sanitillo and now personal representative of President Wilson there, that under no circumstances would he sanction conferences with representatives of General Huerta to draft terms of peace. He told Mr. Silliman that only the unconditional surrender of the authorities at Mexico City would be accepted.

Carranza Explains Views.

Mr. Silliman, in his report spoke in complimentary terms of Carranza and said his reception by the Constitutionalist chief was most cordial. General Carranza explained in detail why it would be impossible to engage in peace parleys with Huerta delegates, as originally proposed.

BILLY SUNDAY BIDS GOODBYE TO COLORADO SPRINGS AS THOUSANDS SHOUT THEIR FAREWELLS TO HIM

8,000 People Jam Way to Train to Get Last View of Evangelistic Party: 'Not Goodbye, Only Farewell,' Billy Tells Hosts of Friends as Train Rolls Out of Yards

Standing on the observation platform on Denver and Rio Grande No. 1, one arm around "Ma" Sunday's waist, a broad happy grin spread over his face, Billy Sunday waved his big Panama hat in a last farewell to Colorado Springs yesterday morning at 10:30 o'clock. And thus was he standing and waving when the heavy passenger gathered speed and passed from view far down in the yards.

Gathered at the station—rather, all over the yards and the streets and the park—were 8,000 people, each enthusiastically adding his shout to those of the others until the farewell places of vantage on the roofs of buildings and on telegraph poles.

A Farewell to Remember.
To say that it was a great demonstration seems woefully weak, yet that is about all that can be said. Certainly, however, no other personage who ever visited Colorado Springs has been received or bid farewell by such numbers or with such a marked degree of enthusiasm. It must have been a wonderful sight for Billy Sunday—to see the thousands many of them running after the train, as it pulled slowly down the yards, and then dropping back as it gained speed, all of them wildly waving hats, handkerchiefs, anything and all of them shouting at the tops of their voices.

But Billy Sunday, didn't leave with great sadness. Not that he doesn't like Colorado Springs—he asserted and tended to come back as often as possible—but he is too tired to enjoy remaining here now. He wants, above all things, to get to his home in Hood River, Ore., and rest—rest—rest. He worked hard last year and he worked hard in Colorado Springs, as hard as he ever worked anywhere. His season was extended six weeks, he couldn't go much further or longer.

"Gee whiz! I don't know what more I can say," he declared when newspaper men managed to fight off the crowds and begin their numberless questions earlier in the morning. "I'm tired out. This place has left me speechless."

Not Good-by Only Farewell He pondered a moment. Then, with a laugh he said: "Farewell, Colorado.
This is not good-by. Everybody else we've said 'Good-by.' But I, who on earth could say that to a place of beauty like this? I never dreamed it so wonderful. Yes, sir, boss we're coming back!"

"Next Year"
"Perhaps. Rather yes if possible.
I have promised to assist in starting the Bible conference proposed by the ministers. But I can't do it unless

'WE MUST MAKE A CLEAN SWEEP'—VILLA

Complete Conquest Only Thing
That Can Bring Lasting Peace, He Says

CHIHUAHUA, Mexico, July 13.— General Villa said tonight in commending on the proposed retirement of General Huerta and the creation of a provisional presidency at Mexico City, that neither to General Carranza or to him would such a course be acceptable, no matter who the provisional president might be. Nothing but a president under arms of the Constitutionalist forces could bring the revolution to a successful and logical conclusion, he said.

To accept a provisional president, even though installed with the sanction of the Constitutionalists, would be a compromise that could bring no good to Mexico. It was asserted, because this would be likely to be interpreted as a sign of weakness by the old faction and merely would lay a foundation for future trouble. As far as could be learned here, there was no personal feeling against Carranza, the present foreign minister.

The victory of the Constitutionalist cause must be supreme, Villa held, but would not be in case any part of the Huerta government was incorporated into the administration. That the Con-stitutionalists propose to make a clean sweep of the Huerta government and all its elements identified with it was the assertion. The view was held that this would be impossible under any condition short of complete conquest.
This was the fixed program of the forces of the north.

MILLIONS STOLEN FROM NEW HAVEN

and that their connection with the corporation led the public to invest. When these directors were negligent and serious losses resulted therefrom, they were guilty of a grave dereliction of duty and a breach of trust that was morally wrong and criminal in its nature.

Corporate Criminality.

"Directors should be made individually liable to civil and criminal laws for the manner in which they discharge their trust. A corporation can be no better or worse than those who operate it. It should be just as easy to bring a suit against a director as it is to bring a suit against a corporation."

Of all the millions lost to New Haven stockholders, the commission estimates that possibly $5,000,000 may be recovered by proper action. Evidence in its possession tending to show violations of the laws of New York, Massachusetts and Rhode Island has been turned over to the proper executives in those states.

The department of justice has been furnished with a complete record of the testimony obtained by the commission. But there is no federal statute under which the government can sue the stockholders in recovering any of their losses. A suggestion is made that an expenditure in violation of the anti-trust act were beyond the powers of the directors and raises the question of whether the directors may not be held personally responsible to satisfy any losses which resulted.

Had 338 Subsidiaries.

"Directors," the commission declares, "cannot, without accountability, deposit corporate treasury in ventures which are in violation of the laws of the land."

In its investigation, the commission found that the New Haven had 338 subsidiary corporations, many of which served no purpose except "an evil one." The report, pointing out that on the New Haven board were representatives of the Pennsylvania railroad, the New York Central, the United States Steel corporation, the Standard Oil company, the Pullman company and others, says that interlocking directorates of this sort cannot be "too strongly condemned."

"This," it was suggested at the capitol during the day, "probably will have its effect upon the trust legislation now before the senate and may end the talk about leaving the provisions aimed at interlocking directorates out of all the anti-trust legislation."

"The insuring of honesty through the management of the great railroads of the country is a most important question before the people today," the report, in conclusion, "and only when through exposure of wrongdoing and awakened public conscience, coupled with effective laws that produce results, may railroading be placed on the high level that it should occupy."

TAFI TOO MUCH OF A REACTIONARY FOR THE SUPREME BENCH

WASHINGTON, July 13.—Although President Wilson has not begun serious consideration of the appointment of a successor of the late Justice Lurton of the supreme court, it was reported tonight in circles close to the White house that he would lose no time in making a choice.

Secretary Lane of the interior department is regarded in official circles as more likely to be named than any of the many possibilities mentioned, in spite of the fact that the president is known to be very unwilling to break up his cabinet.

Secretary of War Garrison and Attorney General McReynolds also have been suggested, but the fact that New Jersey already is represented on the court by Justice Pitney is believed to make Secretary Garrison's selection highly improbable.

Former Solicitor General Lehmann of St. Louis, Solicitor General Davis, Judge Alton B. Parker, Democratic presidential nominee in 1904, and others are being talked of as possibilities.

Reports that former President Taft might be offered the position are said to be entirely without foundation, because the president wants a man looked upon as more of a progressive. The American Civic society held a meeting here today and adopted a resolution suggesting that legal and commercial organizations call the attention of the president to Mr. Taft's eligibility to fill the vacancy.

inally proposed by the South American mediators at Niagara Falls. The Constitutional chief said he had consulted all his generals and their unanimous opinion was that the plan of Carranza, providing that he himself as president and interim take military possession of Mexico City, be carried out to the letter.

Carranza assured the American representative that the Constitutional forces soon would enter Mexico City and maintain order there. The suggestion was made by Carranza that the Huerta forces surrender unconditionally and that he would give ample guarantees for the protection of life and property.

U. S. Will Not Interfere.

Officials here were greatly pleased at Carranza's friendliness toward the United States. They indicated that while the American government would have preferred to see peace conferences, no step would be taken by the United States to interfere with the triumphant progress of the revolution. The Constitutionalists have been informed in unequivocal terms, however, that they will not be accorded recognition if excesses are committed on their entry into Mexico City.

The Washington administration and the South American mediators are not relaxing their efforts to bring about the change of administration in Mexico City without disturbance and to avoid further bloodshed. While no formal conferences will be held, plans are in the making for the transmission of suggestions between representatives of the two factions with a view to effecting the transfer at an early date.

Local Constitutionalists said the precedent of 1890 might be followed. When Miramon, who had overthrown Benito Juarez, the legally elected president, was crushed by the revolutionists who also called themselves "Constitutionalists."

Rebel Plan of Succession.

Miramon abdicated leaving executive authority in the hands of the "ayuntamiento," or city council. That Huerta or Carbajal should retire leaving the police power over the city of Mexico in the hands of the council until General Carranza could reach the capital is the suggestion advanced by Fernando Iglesias Calderon, the other Constitutional representative.

The Constitutionalists claim their military campaign has progressed too far to admit of compromise. A complete triumph of the revolution must be realized and no transaction should be entered into which could be construed as legalizing the government of Huerta. For this reason the Constitutionalists will not accept executive power direct from the hands of Huerta or Carbajal, but hope to assume it direct after the brief interregnum of the city council.

General Carranza, it was learned from official dispatches, will arrive in Tampico in a day or two. From there he will be ready to go to Mexico City should an agreement be reached for a change in administration there.

'THE MASTER MIND' BEST OF BURNS PRODUCTIONS

Heavier Than Usual Summer Play. It Holds Close Attention of First Night Crowd.

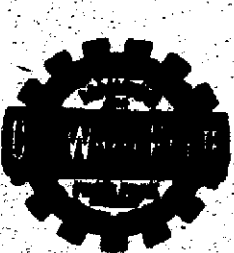

Though not the light, fluffy sort of play usually produced for summer audiences, "The Master Mind" should and probably will draw the crowds to the Burns this week. The production is rather heavy and filled with tense situations and, while its kind produced consistently would not be satisfying to the seekers of light amusement during the warm summer days, it fills its place of adding variety to the season's plays in an excellent manner.

"The Master Mind" is of the "crook" type, though not the usual "crook" play. The Master Mind—the highest type of criminal, the perfect man who leaves no clues and easily baffles all detectives—appears to "get" the victim, attorney, who has sent his brother to the electric chair. He plans and plots for years, finally brings about the marriage of the attorney, now a gubernatorial candidate, to a girl crook and so arranges events that he secures enough "dope" on the politician to completely wreck all hopes of a career in public life. However, at the last moment, when he seemingly has triumphed, his love for the girl who he groomed for years that he might bring about her marriage to the attorney, causes him to give his enemy his freedom, promise that he will never molest him and so his way, his brother's death unavenged.

Duncan She... New Side.

In "The Master Mind" the Burns Players appear to even better advantage than in either "The Spreadshirt" or "The Ghost B. K. K." With but an exception or two they are on a par with many of the better and companies and the production itself is even better than many of those seen here during the regular season.

In "The Master Mind" Malcolm Duncan has a character radically different from those he has appeared in heretofore. He is the king of all crooks; the master of all situations; no matter how involved; ever working out his diabolical plans and putting them into effect with no more feeling or emotion than one might expect in a heist. When he coldly and deliberately planned the downfall of his enemy and the sacrifice of the girl the audience hated him; when he spoke of how the attorney through shady methods had sent his brother to his death, it pitted him, almost convinced itself, that his act was justified. Mr. Duncan presented the master very well, but he is neither so good nor so finished as the crook as he is in some lighter character.

Miss Haber Wins Audience.

Miss Eleanor Haber has but one chance in "The Master Mind"—in the third act. She made the best of that opportunity, however, and won the admiration of last night's audience by her excellent work. In the act she has been tricked into meeting a crook, a friend of former days, in her home, in the middle of the night, is discovered by her husband, and, through the uncanny plotting of The Master Mind, is made to appear as having forsaken her husband to run away with the first love. The act is gripping from beginning to end. The self-sacrificing wife at once wins the deepest sympathy of the audience. It was a pretty bit of emotional acting and threw many into tears.

Manart Kippen is coming to the front in leaps and bounds. In "The Master Mind" he presents the attorney who The Master Mind plots to ruin, and he does it ably. Mr. Kippen has a free and easy manner, a clear voice and good diction. With a few years more experience he will be one worth following.

Last night marked the first appearance with the Burns Players of Miss Adelaide Cumming, the new character woman. Miss Cumming appears to good advantage as the ex-crook, who is used by The Master Mind as a pawn in his little drama, and probably will do some very good work in the future. William Rieffel, as the man the family provided by the master crook for the girl, also does some work, as does Edgar Mavor as the other. The others are capable.

The play runs smoothly, and, though slow at times, is well worth the evening.

SHORT LINE STRIKE SETTLED

THE settlement yesterday of the Short Line railway strike on terms satisfactory to both principles is an event for which the public, no less than the parties concerned, may well be thankful. The strike had been in progress only eight days, but it had already assumed a serious stage, for both passenger and freight traffic was interrupted and the business of the Cripple Creek mines and local mills was almost at a standstill. A continuance of the tie-up would have been disastrous both to the interests directly concerned and to the tourist business of the community.

Under the agreement the employee whose dismissal was the first cause of the trouble is given a place elsewhere, and the men who went on strike are to be reinstated. Efforts will be made to take care of those who took the places of the strikers. It is hard to see how a settlement could have been made which would be more nearly satisfactory to everybody concerned.

The community is under obligations to the mediation committee, composed of District Attorney Purcell, Judge Ira Harris, and Mr. J. A. Hayes, for their untiring efforts to bring about an agreement. It is noteworthy, too, that the officials of the railway brotherhoods, who came here to take charge of the situation, displayed a commendable spirit of fairness and justice throughout. It was their business, of course, to protect the interests of the striking employees, but they showed a frank recognition also of the interests of the company, and more especially of the community. Without their cooperation an equitable adjustment could not have been made.

In these days when men like Moyer, Haywood and other demagogues play such a prominent part in labor difficulties, invariably seeking unfair advantage rather than justice, it is indeed gratifying to note the example of fairness and moderation set by the officials of the railway brotherhoods.

FOOD LAWS THEN AND NOW

IT is about eight years since the country was stirred by the agitation over meat inspection laws. Disclosures had been made of insanitary conditions in most of the big meat packing houses. A great deal of it was true, and a great deal more was added which was not true, but which intensified public feeling and eventually accomplished a great deal of harm.

At last Congress passed a law providing for rigid inspection of all packing-house products from the advent of the animal to the stockyard to the final shipment of the finished goods. It also passed a pure food law governing the sale of all kinds of foods, medicines and liquors.

The agitation at that time cost the packers dearly. Their foreign market, almost as important as the home market, was virtually wiped out. In England and Germany especially the prejudice against American meats became so strong, partly because it was urged on by rival interests as to all but destroy a business which had run into the hundreds of millions annually.

A few days ago a brief dispatch from London told of a curious change in this situation. Alfred Moore, Secretary of the British Pure Food and Health Society, in a public address, upheld the American pure food laws as models, and denounced his countrymen for their apathy toward this subject. He declared that the British public is defrauded of more than $800,000,000 annually through adulterated foods, and added:

In this country the people seem to prefer to go on having plenty of Paris in their flour, foreign fat and unwholesome preserves in their butter, imitation cream, cheese with the kind of salt and tallow, red-dyed fat leaves in food of tea, cherry instead of coffee, starch and powdered bean shell instead of cocoa, French half-macaroni, and so on and so forth.

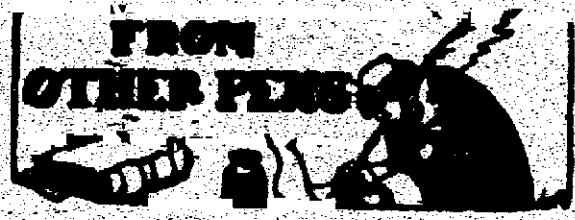

THE NEW HAVEN SCANDAL

THE Interstate Commerce Commission is a body of dignified gentlemen who carefully refrain from the use of extravagant language in their official utterances, so their characterization of the financial management of the New Haven railroad as "one of the most glaring instances of maladministration revealed in all the history of American railroadings" indicates that it must have been pretty bad.

The transactions revealed by the Commission's investigation show that the men actually responsible for the plundering of the New Haven road were not a whit better in morals than common criminals; their methods were more refined and, therefore, more effective. And this is the most astounding aspect of the whole affair. The public is more or less familiar with stock-jobbing operations of a conventional kind and regards them at least with toleration. Some of them may not be strictly honest when carefully examined, but at any rate the average man who regards himself as honorable and upright is perfectly willing to practice and profit by them if the opportunity offers.

But the New Haven crowd fairly out-heroded Herod. It was not merely "high finance," it was plain theft. They stole right and left whenever they had a chance, and when they didn't have a chance they made one expressly for the benefit of their own pockets. The Commission says that the direct losses to stockholders from their acts will range from sixty million to ninety million dollars, and that in some cases suits can be brought to recover the money.

Of course the responsibility for these transactions is still a little in doubt, for every man involved is anxious to shift it to somebody else. Mr. Mellon, the former president of the road posed in the investigation in the humiliating role of a mere office boy for J. P. Morgan, but Mr. Morgan is dead and can neither testify in his own behalf nor be indicted. It is easy to understand Mr. Mellon's anxiety to clear his own skirts, but it is pleasant to know that he has not, as yet, succeeded in doing so.

"MUST THE CHURCH ADOPT CHRISTIAN SCIENCE HEALING?"

Rev. J. Winthrop Hegeman, in the July North American Review.

Why have not the churches done more to save life? The wonderful healing by Christian Science has demonstrated the facts of the presence of the Kingdom of God in the world, and the consciousness of God as available today as ever, and that man is only spiritual and as the likeness of God reflects him to destroy everything unbecoming. Therefore the church, having this cure-all and being an organ of Christianity, ought to cure the master, whose last words were: "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature, and these signs will follow them that believe." They shall lay hands on the sick and they shall recover. As then, go today, they went forth and preached everywhere, the Lord working with them and confirming the word with signs following. Healing is one of the signs following the coming of the Kingdom of God. The church, which the church may adopt this healing, the following propositions are submitted: A sickness, humanity presupposes a sickness, humanity. The children of God, realizing their divine birthright, are free from disease. They cannot sin because they are born of God. When humanity ceases to think in Godlike thoughts it will realize its sickness and consequently sickness. The Kingdom of God is now here and those really in it cannot be sick because there is no unhappiness in the God-consciousness. All sickness has its source in the carnal mind region. This is enmity against God. The church is commissioned to destroy it. A Christian is a kind of fruit of the new humanity, a sample of the fruitage of Christianity, of which health is one of the transformed life is secured only by the renewing of the mind to gain the mind that was in Christ Jesus. The method Jesus used was entirely theotherapeutic. His command to his disciples to heal was of the same obligation as to preach.

AMERICAN ROWERS AT HENLEY

From the Washington Star.

Some consolation for the recent defeat of the American polo team by the British players is gained from the triumph of the American oarsmen at Henley. Though the individual rowing championship went to an Italian, the British eight was defeated by the westerners in the trial heats, and the final race was rowed by two crews from the United States. Harvard's victory, therefore, was over another American crew, thus giving this country the triumph doubly.

As the season's record now stands, England wins at polo and polo and America wins at rowing. The supreme test of all international rivalries is to come in September, when Lipton's new Shamrock will meet an American cup defender off Sandy Hook in a series of races which will be watched with breathless interest by both nations. Had the Henley results gone to an English crew, on top of the golf and polo victories by English players, there would indeed have been reason to feel that this is a British year, and that the America's cup would probably be lost. But now the feeling that the luck is with the Americans from the other side has no particular force, and a more hopeful view may be taken by those who read these matters with a tinge of superstition.

It was remarked by an American rowing trainer on his survey of the preliminary work of the British crews at Henley that if ever the Americans were to win this was the chance, for the British oarsmen were obviously not up to mark in stamina or performance. This, however, does not detract from the splendid victory of the Harvard eight, which was well deserved, and proves a most gratifying demonstration of the pluck and skill that go to the making of a successful boatman.

COSTA RICA

BY GEORGE FITCH
 Author of "At Good Old Steward."

Costa Rica is a free and unharnessed republic which used to get a little publicity in the foreign news until Mexico came along and hogged the whole show.

The name "Costa Rica" signifies "Rich Coast." It was named by the Spaniards, who conquered the country in 1530 and then hunted for gold patiently for 150 years with so little success that the name became a Caribbean joke. However, the banana shippers came along about 30 years ago and have made more money since that time than the Spaniards made out of the land in three centuries. If the Spaniards had used more hoes and less picks in their labor in the new world, Spain might today be congested with millionaires.

Costa Rica is a small country, about as large as Vermont and New Hampshire and even more bumpy in surface. It is equipped with three climates, torrid, temperate and cold. On the seacoast, rain falls by feet instead of inches and anything more than a coat of tan is uncomfortable. Half way up the mountains people brag like Michikanders about sleeping under blankets at night, while on the summit of the 11,000 foot mountains the chillblain and frost-bitten ear are not uncommon. Much of Costa Rica's soil has been blown out of its volcanoes and in this soil, fine coffee and some very irascible and feverish patriots are raised.

The chief business of Costa Rica is to furnish bananas for the United States and Europe. Its next most strenuous occupation is getting extensions on its public debt. Costa Rica has borrowed most successfully from England and has refrained from paying interest on its debts with almost equal success. Costa Rica holds the world's championship for seceding. South Carolina not excepted. In 1821 it seceded from Spain after a hard fight. Two years later it seceded from Mexico and in 1848 it took its gold things and went away from the United States of Central America. Later on it retired from the greater republic of Central America. However, Costa Rica has always governed itself with great success, having had no revolutions worth mentioning. It has about 400,000 people and a gunboat large enough to furnish sleeping accommodations for its admiral.

The capital of Costa Rica is San Jose, which can be reached by railroad if the traveler is in no hurry or by mule track if he is pressed for time. (Copyrighted by George Matthew Adams.)

In Love Though Married

BY RUTH CAMERON

When a man finds out after marriage that the beauty which he admired during courtship is largely artificial we do not blame him for being disappointed in his bride and losing some of his love for her. Is it the man who has been attracted by certain qualities of character or temperament, and who finds that these also are removable just as little to be blamed for losing his ardor?

Indeed, I think he is more unfortunate than the other, for his love, having been founded on something deeper and more real, and hence his disappointment is keener.

Despite the belief to the contrary, comparatively few men are attracted merely by beauty. For one thing, comparatively few women are that beautiful. Most men fall in love with a woman because, that woman has certain qualities in temperament of character which arouse that peculiar compound of passion and tenderness known as love.

Now almost any woman is astute enough to know what qualities in her particularly attract her lover. She can feel his access of tenderness when she displays these particular qualities, and she learns to give them free play during the courtship.

After marriage? Well, that's another matter. We often hear protests against woman's tendency to grow slowly in her personal appearance after marriage. Now I think the average woman shows a greater tendency to grow slowly in the use of her other charms.

For instance, once upon a time a young girl who was rather sweet-looking, but not really pretty, captured the hand and heart of a young man. People wondered at her good fortune, but it was really simple enough. She was an enthusiastic, vivacious, unconventional little person, and he happened to care more for those qualities than for beauty.

That was about 10 years ago. The other day I was sorry to hear that the man in the case had been taking his stenographer about. Sorry but not surprised, for the vivacious, enthusiastic, unconventional little person whom he fell in love with and married 10 years ago, is now a settled down, thoroughly conventional, matter-of-fact housewife, middle-aged long before her time. And the stenographer—poor little fool!—is much the same kind of a vivacious, enthusiastic, unconventional young person as the girl he loved 10 years ago. And isn't such slovenliness as had as carelessness about one's person?

Men fall in love with women for many qualities—for their sweetness, their lack of sophistication, their vivacity, their good humor, their purity, for their elusiveness, for the flavor of the child in them, etc., etc.

Every woman should know what quality in her particularly attracts and try to be as careful about preserving it as she is to keep looking young.

Do you know what quality in you attracts your husband, Reader Friend, and are you keeping that quality unimpaired?

Billy Sunday Letters

The Gazette will print in this column letters on both sides of the Billy Sunday question, but reserves the right to pass judgment as to fitness for publication on all letters submitted. All communications must be limited to 250 words, and must bear the name and address of the writer for publication.

To the Editor of The Gazette:

Mr. Mellon, P. O. Pittsburg, in his Billy Sunday letter affects to write in a spirit of candor. He consumes the allotted space and says nothing, but regrets being "frustrated" for lack of space.

Mr. Mellon, you inveigh against Mr. Sunday. Is your grudge personal or against his message? Do you presume to enlighten the people of Colorado Springs regarding Billy Sunday after he has been here five weeks? Have you a little private, inside information to offer them? Know nothing about? Who invited Mr. Sunday to Pittsburg—your class or the churches? How many were converted in the four cities of these towns injured? How much did you give toward the campaign? Nothing. Do you begrudge others the right to give if they desire? Has Mr. Sunday any use for shams or hypocrites? Have you?

What is your business? In what esteem do Christian people hold you in your town? Are you helping men and women to lead a moral life? What is your opinion of the movement which who opposes a social or movement which 95 per cent of the Christian people endorse? Read Matthew 18:17.

DR. H. G. WOODWORTH,
 Colorado Springs, July 13.

To the Editor of The Gazette:

Mr. Sunday and some of his supporters have declared their faith in the Bible as the infallible word of God and true from "cover to cover."

Let us see. The Bible chronicles give the age of the world at less than 6,000 years, scientists reckon it to be hundreds of thousands of years. The Bible claims that God "created" man "perfect," but that he "fell," and consequently degenerated; while, instead of being "created" perfect, he has evolved to his present state from a creature more resembling an ape than the perfect man of today.

In the Genesis account of the deluge it is said the waters covered the entire earth and submerged the highest mountains. If all the clouds were wrung dry, and every bit of moisture belonging to this earth could be confined to its surface, it would not materially increase the volume of the oceans; and to "pipe" a supply for such a flood from the nearest plant (Mars, distant 35,000,000 miles), would be impossible for several reasons. Historians also record the fact that nations existing at the time this flood was supposed to have occurred "were not able to keep out of the wet, as well as Noah, and didn't have to get into an ark to do it, either."

Were I not restricted to so small a space, I could give many other convincing proofs of the Bible's fallibility. HERSCHEL HEILIG, Colorado Springs, July 13.

To the Editor of The Gazette:

In your issue of Monday, July 6, I think you have an item, "A Man from Missouri Who Has Been Shown," in which it is stated that the Missouri man at Colorado Springs, who with much "blanket blarney," said: "he was in my home town a few years ago and put the saloons out of business." This story sounds much like one which was told on a street car in Joplin while the Rev. (?) Billy Sunday was in Joplin, something over four years ago. The difference being the man "blanketing" him being from Duluth, Kokomo or Wahatch, as happened to strike his "blanketing" blank fancy.

This is one of the stock points of Sunday's "sermon," and, the only thing out of pitch with the rest of the music is (and I speak as one knowing positively the facts) the Sunday meetings in Joplin so far from miffing the saloons out of business didn't even put a dent in the saloon business. They were open every day during his meetings here; even including an hour Sunday nights. They have been open every day permitted by law and many not so permitted, since he was here, but what matter? Billy got the money, he has gotten it in every town into which he has gone with his plan of "preaching" his "hallelujah" under the cloak of evangelism, and he will get it in Colorado Springs.

W. F. FROST,
 1917 Carter avenue,
 Joplin, Mo. July 13.

To the Editor of The Gazette:

One who witnessed the triumphal departure of Billy Sunday from Colorado Springs yesterday morning, amid the cheers, fearful, farwells, hearty handshakes and good-wishes of admiring thousands, was reminded forcibly of the words of Caesar, "I come, I saw, I conquered."

It could not fail to be a source of gratification to any man the evidence of which any were needed of how deeply he is enshrined in the hearts of the people of our city. Mr. Sunday was handicapped at the beginning of his campaign here by prejudice, all unfounded, but those who were inclined to criticize him became his staunchest friends and most devoted adherents—how could it be otherwise?

And now, as he journeys over our broad land carrying his glad tidings of great joy, our prayers go with him; and to our sister city, Denver, eagerly awaiting his coming in the fall, we say: He has been weighed in the balance and not found wanting, and as bespeak for him a hearty welcome, your cooperation, confidence and affection. GEORGE V. ROBINSON, Colorado Springs, July 13.

To the Editor of The Gazette:

What has Billy Sunday done? Is it all over? Has he done it? His reputation and his organization have been bringing the crowds together, but—He has much of the good come from an invincible craving for better things common to us all, and brought out by these great human gatherings, in which all denominational differences have been forgotten and the crowds have met as men and women seeking help and comfort and perhaps enlightenment in the name of Christ?

If all who would want to believe in God and wish to see better times here on earth would move together, even once a month, to sing a rousing hymn.

"HOT WEATHER HYGIENE"

Did you ever think what a wonderful heat regulating machine your body is?

Pearl was exposed to a temperature of 30 degrees below zero at the pole and Roosevelt to a temperature of 110 degrees above zero in Brazil, but so long as they were in good health, the temperature of their own bodies kept within one or two degrees of 98.6 degrees.

The body produces heat all the time by activity of its cells, and if it did not give off just the right amount it would soon develop a fever. As a rule, the heat regulating machinery, or vaso-motor system, as it is called, succeeds perfectly in doing this. When the air outside grows cooler or warmer, the blood vessels in the skin contract or expand so as to bring more or less blood to the skin and cool the body off faster or slower. In very warm weather this heat regulating machinery has to work very hard to keep the body cool, and if it fails, sickness results.

The first thing to remember in hot weather is that muscular work heats up the body and puts a special strain on the heat regulating machinery.

"Do not take violent exercise in hot weather unless you are used to it." "Fire is a good servant, but a bad master," is an old proverb. The sun is a long way off, but it is just as big as the sun. It is a good servant when it warms us in winter and brings up our crops in spring. It is a bad master when it gives us heat stroke and parches our fields in summer.

Keep in the shade as much as possible in very hot weather, and when you must work in the sun, protect your head by wearing a hat with a moist hat inside it.

Keep in a current of moving air in hot weather whenever possible. Our bodies are surrounded by blankets of hot, moist air, just as a stove is, and a wind breaks up these blankets and cools us off.

Wear light clothing and open cotton underwear. Let the heat get away from your furnace of a body as fast as it can.

The man who perspires freely looks hot, but he is not half as hot as he is not. Evaporation is one of the most powerful cooling processes in nature, and as the perspiration evaporates it cools the body very much, as ammonia, expanding in coils, cools a cold storage warehouse.

Swallow freely and drink plenty of water so that the perspiration may flow.

The above is a sample of the copy sent each week to 400 newspapers by the state board of health of New York. The object is to teach the people of that state how to live, to keep in health and to get just as much as possible out of life.

In other words, do not drink beer, wine or whisky.

NO DANGER TO OFFSPRING.

H. A. E. writes: "If a man of 60 in good health, should marry a spinster of 31, and in good health, would any of the possible offspring be like to suffer mentally or physically due to the age of the father or the discrepancy in ages between husband and wife? In other words, has a baby born with a father aged 60 as good an equipment for life as a father whose father was only 30? How much is the danger of childbirth increased by the mother waiting until she is 40 years of age before marrying?"

1. No.

MUST REMAIN COLOR BLIND.

G. F. F. writes: "Is there any treatment for color blindness in a boy of 13 that may be followed successfully?"

REPLY

No.

HAIR DOES NOT "TURN WHITE"

From the Indianapolis News.

The old story that the hair of Marie Antoinette, wife of Louis XVI, grew gray in a single night, the night after she was condemned to lose her head under the sharp blade of the guillotine, is discussed in a recent number of the Journal of the American Medical Association. The Journal avers that while it is true that her hair was gray at her death, her biographers all record that her hair had been gray long before the time of her execution. The comment is made that it is quite possible that the change in her hair while in prison was due to the fact that she did not have access to hair dress and other toilet preparations.

Accounting for color changes of the hair it is explained that this change is not due to a destruction of pigment present in the hair, or to a bleaching of hairs already formed, but that pigmented hairs fall out and are replaced by unpigmented or white ones. Completely pigmented hairs never turn gray. They fall out. It has also been observed that the process of pigment formation may cease during the development of a hair. In such case the tip of the hair will remain pigmented though the base appears white.

HOW TO AVOID MONOTONY

Miss. Paget in the English Review.

To avoid monotony one has invented a thousand things. I have noticed a few late innovations in the most fashionable private tea-parties.

At the celebrated reception of a dramatic author's wife one delights in a surprising diversity of sandwiches laid on trays in bed enameled sheet iron. Usual ham and foie gras sandwiches are dispensed. You discover unexpected goose liver, olives mixed with caviar, sliced ham and eggs, oysters with cream and lemon. Charming crystalline shells painted with bright garlands shelter some plain-looking pastry which reveals the glorious secret of another famous hostess: hard chocolate mixed with mocha chestnut cream. A renowned painter has invented cakes overflowing with fruit creamy creams, which are served to her guests in antique, precious Japanese china bowls.

Up-to-date tea parties instigate the clever ingenuity of mattresses decorated by every single thing, contents and container, which to be found at her house and nowhere else.

Popularity of whale flesh in Japan is steadily increasing. For several years past this meat has been used, both fresh and canned, very extensively in that country.

SLIGHT DAMAGE DONE BY RAINS TO COUNTY ROADS

Slight damage to county roads and bridges in the neighborhood of Monuheavy storm which assumed almost the proportions of a cloudburst, and flood waters in small creeks carried out three or four unimportant bridges on a side road. No damage was done.

Delicious Doughnuts

15c a DOZEN

For your coffee in the morning there's nothing so tempting as our delicious doughnuts or coffee cakes or cinnamon rolls. We mention doughnuts especially because they're just a little smaller than the others and appeal more to people with small breakfast appetites.

They have a very rich flavor because they're made with un-
